

“Come Let us Worship”

*“Come, let us bow down in worship,
let us kneel before the Lord our Maker;
for he is our God
and we are the people of his pasture,
the flock under his care.”*

(Psalm 95:6-7a, NIV)

What if my life is a mess right now, and I simply cannot sing to God?

Q: Who wrote Psalm 95?

A: King David.

→ In Hebrews 4:7 where the writer quotes Psalm 95, David is said to be the one who wrote the Psalm.

Exploration of David’s life

- David’s life was not always full of singing and rejoicing; he had lots of suffering.
- David would constantly cry out to God (Ex. Ps 6:2-3, Ps 13:1-2, 55:1-2 etc.).
- But whenever David was suffering and even complaining to the Lord, David still trusted in Him at the end (Ex Ps 6:8-9, Ps 13:5-6, Ps 55:16-17 etc.).
- David acknowledged who God is and what He can do.
→ One form of worship
- Even in the midst of unbearable sorrow, such as the loss of his son, David still worshiped God (2 Sam. 12:19-20).
→ Worship is not just singing and rejoicing, but is also the act of acknowledging that God is God and praising Him for who He is.

Conclusion

Worship is a way of life. Let us live a life of worship, and share with others about the God we love so that there will be more and more worship.
